VIEWS OF MANY MINDS.

Lawyer Lipscomb's Clothes Washing-ton's Streets Typewriters in the Departments Craze for Real Es-tate Investments Fire Escapes,

ANDREW A. LIPSCOMB-This thing of ANDREW A. LIPSCOMD—This thing of sending to England for clothes is nothing but a fud. I tried it for a while, but I found out that right here in Washington one can get a suit of clothes of exactly as good material as he could get in any city in England. Every gentleman who has ever made an attempt at being clothed by an English tailor knows that English clothes possess but one merit and that is the exsess but one merit, and that is the ex-cellence of the material. So far as the style is concerned, it is nowhere as com pared with our American work. The American people ought to advocate the adoption of a national style and break away from the English idea. Let the men and the women both come to a conclusion to adopt a national style of garment, and give up the idea that only the French and the English can make wearing apparel. Only dudes and anglomaniaes think that it is necessary to go to "Pool's" for clothes. Now, this is a little out of my line, and I did not form my conclusions from what I read in Blackstone, as you will readily conceive, but I mean just what

THOMAS F. GILROY, Commissioner of Public Works of New York-You have very fine pavements here, but they are only guaranteed for five years. I am going to have fifteen miles of similar pevement laid in New York, which will be guaranteed to last fifteen years.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY DUMONT— There is only one United States Court in this country that pays expenses, and that is the Police Court of the District of Columbia, which is not only self-sustaining, but brings in a handsome revenue to the Government. Yet I doubt whether there is a single United States Court in the country with such miserable accommodations or so poorly equipped as this is, Everybody in Washington knows how utterly unsuited to the purpose the building is, for it has long been a disgrace to the city; but it is not so generally known that Congress is so niggardly with its appropriation for that purpose that the officials of the court actually cannot obtain the necessary supplies of stationery, and are obliged to purchase a portion of them out of their own pockets.

FIRE-ESCAPE INVENTOR T. BROOKS-Do you know that while I have been selling my fire escapes to public institutions of every description I have yet failed to sell a single one to a col-lege. The professors are afraid that if fire escapes are placed in the rooms the boys will use them to get out after hours. Such neglect to place fire escapes in educational institutions is, I think, criminal. But I am going to beat the college professors yet. I have nearly completed an invention by which one cannot only lower himself out of a window with safety but can hoist himself back again. As soon as I get it patented I am going to sell them to the boys, and I know they'll go off like hot cakes. There's millions in it. A FEMALE CIVIL SERVANT-YOU have no idea to what an extent the type-writers in the Departments—the oper-ators, I mean, not the machines—are utilized by their superior officers to do-private work during office hours. Any number of Government officials, who want to be authors, have their manuscripts type-written in the Departments free of charge. Of course, it is all one to the Departmental type-writer whether the work is for the Government or not, but it is a great injustice to outside type writers, who thus lose a great deal of work. I can tell you a pretty good story in this connection. Up in our Department there is a lady—the daughter of a distinguished general, now dead—who does a good deal of writing for the cheaper class of of writing for the cheaper class of magazines, and always has her manuscripts copied by one of the type-writers in the Department. One day she took the manuscript of a short article, written for a well-known woman's magazine, to a young lady who had recently been appointed as copyist in the Department to have it transcribed.

The young woman it seems had had some dealings with magazines herself, and not being troubled with conscien-tious scruples, she made two copies of the article, mailed one to a periodical to which she had before sold some matter, and under some pretext delayed delivering the other one to its author for some time. The article was promptly accepted and a check for it sent to the typewriter. Then the author of the article mailed it to the magazine for which she intended it and a few days latter there was an explosion. It seems that the typewriter, as such would have it, had mailed the stolen matter to the it, had mailed the stolen matter to the very same editor that its rightful owner had intended it for. The offer of a copy of manuscript which he had already accepted or paid for actually caused the editor to institute an inquiry, which in a very short time led to an exposure of the fair typewriter's duplicity. The and the author had an awful row, at the latter couldn't very well lay the matter before the chief and ask for the girl's dismissal, for of course she had no right to have the matter copied in no right to have the matter copied in the office, and didn't care about having the fact that she had exposed. She will, however, have her manuscript copied elsewhere in future.

LAWYER S. C. NEALE-The efficacy of oil to smooth troubled waters has long been proverbial, but I never, until the other day, heard of its being used to calm the storms created by whisky. A calm the storms created by whisky. A few days ago a young man of my acquaintance, who sometimes looks upon the wine when it is red, strolled into my office. I immediately noticed from his appearance that he had been drinking more than was good for him. He came up to my desk, after several in effectual attempts to steady himself, sat down and gravely down from himself, sat down and gravely drew from his pocket a bottle of olive oil, from which he deliberately took a long swallow. Observing the astonishment which must have been depicted on my countenance at this unusual proceeding, he said: "Finest thing in world. Drink too much whisky, fumes go to head. Makes you drunk. Take drink sweet oil. Oil floats top of whisky; fumes can't go through it; all right. See?" And he smiled on me with the air of a man who was impressing on me knowledge of priceless value. A short time after this I met Dr. Hammond, and the conversation in some way turning to the sub-ject of drinking. I was reminded of this incident and related it to him as an in-stance of the strange freaks of drunken men. To my surprise the Doctor told me that the young man's theory was quite correct, and said that either oil or cream, when drunk after alcoholic liquer, greatly diminished their intoxi-cating effects.

J. J. HOGAN-I saw a diamond backed terrapin once that measured 10 backed terrapin once that measured 10 inches across the back, but this one was exceptionally farge. They usually grow from 6 to 7 inches across, and rarely attain a size larger than 8 inches. They are a very expensive delicacy, as every epicure well knews. I have been paid as high as $6 a piece for them, and if I were to quote you their standard market price, the best I could do would be to say that they are worth almost any price you ask for them. A good ter-rapin will make a dinner for from three to three and a half adults, or it will make soup for from six to eight per-

WILBUR L. CORB-The late Wm. D. Kelly died far from wealthy. Ever since he attained the age of his majority he has made a good deal of money, but he seemed to be unfortunate in his investments and several times lost money in large chunks. It has been but a few years since he and some other gentlemen conceived the idea of running cheap herdies to any part of the city for twenty-five cents a single fare. A great deal of money was invested and the venture given a fair trial, but the system did not meet with public patronage sufficient to make it successful financially, and Mr. Kelly, with others, lost his money. He also made an unlucky investment in a venture to control the clay for certain kinds of pottery, the failue of which scheme, it is said, cost Mr. Kelly the vites of two schemes are sufficient to the cost of two schemes are sufficient to the scheme. price of two good Pennsylvania farms.

F. F. REPPETTI-I believe the present depression in the retail trade of Washington is caused by the unusual desire for investment in real estate. There has never been a time within my knowledge when so many persons in moderate circumstances were saving every dollar they could spare from necessities and investing it in realty In this way a vast amount of money is withdrawn from circulation. It is paid to owners of city and outside property, who, receiving it in large lumps, place it in banks or invest it in foreign securities which take it out of the city.

"There must be a cause for all this, doctor."

"There is. Women are weak, and their troubles largely arise from weaknesses. When a woman is weak she requires strength. Her body, her mind, and all her functions must be put in a healthy condition, or she cannot secure strength. Nothing does this so easily and surely as pure spirits taken in moderation, either before meals or between meals. I know scores of ladies that are kept in perfect health, strength, and brilliancy by the judicious use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Many of these indies are wives of ministers, professors, and most of them are temperance women. They realize that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey turnishes the best and only positive help, and they are intelligent enough to profit by such knowledge. I know wheref i speak and I speak as a temperance man. The best temperance people of to day are the ones who use spirits in moderation and find that strength, vigor, color, and brightness are the results rather than weakness, sallowness, and a loss of interest in everything in life."

"HOW AIR YOU JUDGE?"

Court is Interrupted and the Farmer Blocks the Wheels. The lack of conventionality in Judge The lack of conventionality in Judge Gresham's court frequently results in some amusing situations, says the Indianapolis News. The other day the judge was in his room in the Federal building, bearing an argument by A. C. Harris, in an important case, when the door opened and in walked a countryman from Harrison county. Judge Gresham's old home. The visitor was a well-preserved specimen of an independent farmer. His face, unshaven, was round and chubby; he wore a broad, white hat; he was without collar, and his clothing and shoes showed yellow clay. He spit some "amber" when inside the door and then, without noticing Attorney Harris, or the other occupants of the room, stalked up to Judge Gresham with:

"Well how air you, Jedge? how's all the folks? I was in town on a little business, and I knew the folks down home would like to hear from you, so I came up to see you a little while."

Attorney Harris halted at a period in his argument when, with both arms outstretched, he was about to clinch a point; he looked at the intruder a mo-ment, who had not removed his hat, and then beckoned to Deputy Marshal Conway to have the man take off his

Judge Gresham apparently did not notice the embarrassment of the attorneys and spectators. He rose from his cliair, took the visitor by the hand, called him by his given name, asked him about all his family, also calling them by name, and said he was glad he had come in. He chatted piezantle had come in. He chatted pleasantly with the old gentleman for several minutes, asking about many Harrison County people, and seemed to enjoy the call. All this time the attorneys and the deputy marshal were bewil-dered. The latter half feared it was his duty to prevent such an interruption of court, but he hesitated about moving. The farmer stood talking with the Judge as freely as he would have conversed with his nearest neighbor over a rail fence, and when he was ready to go he said: "Well, good luck to you, Jedge; come down and see us." And he walked out as independently as he had come in.

The Judge resumed hearing the case as if nothing had happened.
